Press Release

New Team Member Added at Atlapac Corp.

January 18, 2011 -Columbus, Ohio --- Atlapac, an American manufacturer of poly packaging, pouches and bags, announces the addition of Tammy Lehar as Business Development Manager.

Atlapac is proud to announce that a true industry veteran has joined the team as a Business Development Manager. Tammy Lehar is well known in the contract converting industry and throughout the entire flexible packaging industry. Tammy's main focus at Atlapac is to continue the growth in the contract pouch and converting area of Atlapac. For over a decade Tammy's experience with the flexible packaging field has ran the gamut from customer service all the way through the finished sale of packages.

Paul Unrue, Vice President of Atlapac commented, "we are excited to have Tammy Lehar join our team; and it again shows our commitment as a contract converter to the flexible packaging field. Tammy and I will work together to make sure all the flexible packaging converters can take advantage of our true capabilities and service." Atlapac has seen enormous growth in the last three years, and the corporation is committed to sustained growth. This growth is not only supported with new innovative equipment, but with more and more talented personnel such as Ms. Lehar. Unrue added, "we see the value that is brought (to our converting partners) when we invest in people that understand the industry from the beginning (package development) to the finished package on the store shelf. We are with our clients through the whole process, with a true team approach, to assist in seeing an everyday pouch or package succeed".

Atlapac consists of a team of Packaging Professionals. The manufacturing facility in Ohio converts a million packages a day.
