Another Pouch Machine on its way to Atlapac Corp.

March 15, 2011 -Columbus, Ohio --- Atlapac, an American contract manufacturer of pouches and bags, announces the arrival of another new high speed pouch machine. This machine was just purchased by Atlapac due to the overwhelming demand for contract converted stand-up pouches.

Paul Unrue, Vice President, Sales & Marketing, stated “we have a specific plan for sustained growth in the contract converting of pouches here. We have invested in new machines each of the last three years because our clients, and the brands we service with them, need additional capacity to keep up with consumer demand.” Unrue also added “we made a decision recently to add our new Business Development Manager, Tammy Lehar. Once Tammy started our equity team knew we must be poised to support the oncoming demand for her efforts as well; and another line to boost capacity is pivotal to this.”

Atlapac consists of a team of Packaging Professionals. The manufacturing facility in Ohio runs literally millions of bags every month.
